NOT VERY "PROGRESSIVE."

The impulse to which the Governors attending the Spring Lake conference yielded the other day when they deeided to attack the federal Circuit over intrastate commerce so as to interfere with and practically nullify the nation's power to regulate interstate commerce, Governor Aldrich of Nebraska is rated as an advanced Progressive, and line with him on the Minnesota case has been widely advertised as new and welcome evidence of radicalism on Mr. Germany seriously demurred to either of Harmon's part.

The Legislature will reconvene this hoped, its work for this year. In just at the State Fair, in spite of the fact cheding a piece of territory seven miles that they will not enjoy going back to enterprise, but is in part supported by the session. The "boss" will get all the pickings, and Murphy's stake is big-six Congress seats and a new charter for New York City, built to suit him. To win, Murphy is prepared to do some trading and to pay his price-in counterfeit currency-where he cannot grab and run. He can grab the six new Congress seats for Tammany, despite any protests from upstate. But if he gets his charter he will have to buy it. He is prepared to pay to Governor Dix for his favorable onsideration of it if passed, and to three independent Democratic Senators whose votes for it he needs, one direct neminations bill-counterfeit, denounced as a fraud by Democrats of various brands. It seems a small price, even for Murphy. who is recognized as a careful buyer.

It seems impossible to believe that Senators Roosevelt, Burd and Loomis can be hoodwinked by Murphy on this charter question. It is impossible to be lieve that he can wheedle or deceive them into voting for a charter for this city which the people of this city do not want by proffer of an imitation direct nomina tions bill or any other wiles. And what can the "boss" offer to Senator Barth S. miles in twenty-six hours, from Cronin, of Brooklyn, to get his vote for the charter? would decline. Sir William Ramsay, in his presidential address to the British Association, cuts down the period to 175 years, and describes it as "a span in the which plainly has not complied with the life of a nation." When it has passed there will be no more coal in sight which can be profitably mined, national resources for competing with rival coun tries will fail, and the kingdom will be overwhelmed with starvation and misery. The conjurer with radium, after demonstrating that the transformation of one metal into another represents an almost infinite reserve of energy, loses faith in his own marvels and admits wealth and that it is rapidly thrinking, The coal scare has been created so many times at sessions of the British Association that skeptics feel at liberty to laugh at it. Drawing elastic conclusions from the accidental discovery of seams of coal in Buckinghamshire and underneath the racecourse at Doncaster they assume that there are large poten the southern and western counties of England, and they forecast the cheapening and improvement of processes of surrendered to the federal government in mining under stress of pecessity so that the Constitution."
